“ Angels have taken you home to soon. We will miss your laughter, jokes, our intense talks of government. Living next door to Jenny and you all these years, has brought lots of shared laughter. You both had a special relationship and I know you are looking out for her now. It already is hard not seeing you and Jenny out side sitting and you struggling with the big sodas you brought home at night, even you guys leaving for darts. You will be greatly miss by us.
